

LAUNDRY & LINEN

Hospitals are continually challenged with reducing utilization of laundry and linen while ensuring that patient care standards are maintained. Whether a healthcare facility outsources their laundry operations, or manages an on-site laundry process, it is essential that they improve performance measurements while adhering to an integrated infection prevention and control program.

During a hospital stay, the utilization of linens by patients has both a financial and a health impact. It's essential to provide patients the best possible product to help optimize health outcomes.

Recent Medicare changes put hospitals at risk for lower reimbursements if key quality standards are not met. Therefore, it's more critical than ever for hospitals to create high performing laundry operations.

Soriant Healthcare helps position hospitals to embrace new developments in the industry, improve patient care and enhance the bottom line. By utilizing our expertise and best practices in laundry and linen, we partner with you to build a worry-free linen operation, meet quality standards and sustain financial success.

Soriant is well aware of developments in the healthcare textiles market that are creating new options for hospitals. Blended fabrics provide greater comfort for patients and decrease expenses for hospitals. Environmentally friendly choices are proving to be more cost effective in some cases and demonstrate a commitment to the environment.
